LESSON FROM LORD GANESHJI IN MANAGEMENT

A unique session titled "Lesson from Lord Ganeshji in Management" offered students valuable insights into leadership, wisdom, and decision-making through the symbolic teachings of Lord Ganeshji. The session encouraged students to apply ancient wisdom to modern-day management practices.

GUEST LECTURE ON "STRESS MANAGEMENT"

A guest lecture on "Stress Management" by Mr. Satya Ranjan Bhattacharya provided practical techniques to handle stress, enhance emotional well-being, and maintain mental clarity. Students gained valuable strategies to stay focused and productive in both academic and professional environments.

SPREADING SMILES AND LEARNING COMPASSION (OUTREACH ACTIVITY)

On 24th October 2024, a meaningful visit was organized to Vrinda Ashram, where students spent time interacting with the elderly. The experience gave them deep insights into empathy, human connection, and the importance of compassion—qualities essential for becoming responsible and humane leaders in the future. The visit left a lasting impact on everyone involved.

CORPORATE CONNECT

SSIPMT, RAIPUR

MANAGEMENT IN THE GIG AGE

MS. MALVIKA TIWARI

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR
DEPT. OF MANAGEMENT STUDIES

The gig economy—driven by freelance, part-time, and project-based work—is no longer just a trend; it's the future of work. As organizations become more agile and digital, the traditional manager's role is evolving rapidly.

For today's MBA students, this means preparing for a world where you might lead remote freelancers, collaborate across time zones, and manage performance based on outcomes, not attendance. Digital tools, emotional intelligence, and clear communication will be your strongest assets.

AI-powered platforms are further revolutionizing how managers source, monitor, and optimize gig-based talent.

You won't just manage people—you'll manage projects, partnerships, and potential.

"In the gig economy, leadership isn't about control—it's about connection, clarity, and collaboration."

As future managers, embrace flexibility, think like entrepreneurs, and sharpen your ability to work with diverse, dynamic talent pools. The gig economy isn't just shaping the future—it's shaping your future.
